Story

In the Age of Anger
What is anger? Where does it come from? And how can we handle it?

Anger is a central condition of people living in the young 21st century. ‘Fridays for Future’, enraged citizens or new extreme politic parties are being voted to protest against many current circumstances. Often, anger is a symptom of anxiety about the unknown. And especially young people look for ways to express their anger to cause attention for their problems.

In this anthology, 13 short texts are about anger. A feeling that is personal, but still has the power to provoke change. Anger has many colours and forms. The collection provides short stories, song lyrics, reports and pictures - trying to capture those individual forms of anger.
