How lovely! Hamster is coming to visit Mouse, and there's delicious cheesecake. Full of pride, Mouse shows her friend her toy fire engine. But what's this? Hamster wants to have it!

"No!" shouts Mouse. He pulls, she screams, and soon a big fight breaks out.

How the two manage to make up again and how sharing can become really easy is shown in this board book.

Yaaawn! The little Train has been travelling across the country all day long and has experienced so much. But now it's time to go to sleep. Before that, it wishes the high-speed train, the tram and all its other friends a good night and happy dreams. Sleep tight, until tomorrow!

LENA WALDE wanted to be a pastry chef, an author and a horse trainer when she was a child. Nevertheless, she first studied English and education in Heidelberg and then worked as an English teacher before fulfilling her dream of becoming an author. Today she writes for all children and adults who love stories as much as she does.

What could be better than a visit to the farm? The grown-ups buy wonderfully fresh fruit and vegetables at the farm shop. The children prefer to look at all the animals. Oh, a cat! She surely wants to be petted. And then there are all those great vehicles you can take a closer look at. Throughout the whole year there are so many different things to search for, discover and marvel at.

He is blue. He’s bursting with ideas. And with him, every day turns into an adventure. This is Kobi Topsy-Turvy Bear! Kobi is wildly excited about his grandma, who is coming back from her trip around the world in her campervan. For Mama and Papa Bear, however, getting ready for the upcoming visit means one thing above all – pure stress! Kobi is supposed to hurry up too and stop dawdling. Then he understands: the clock is to blame for all the hustle and bustle. It shows the wrong time: grown up time, hurry up time! Luckily, at least Grandma is completely relaxed. And Kobi wouldn’t be Topsy-Turvy Bear if he didn’t already have an idea how a children’s-time clock could still save the day!

Just like the Kopfüßbär, JUDITH WEBER’s mind is constantly buzzing with great ideas. It’s a good thing she can incorporate some of them into her children’s books! She lives in the Ruhr region with her husband, her four children, two toms, and a shaggy Icelandic pony.

STORY TIME

King Bunny lives with his servant Lothar in a huge palace. Every morning, after he has finished ruling, they are allowed to play. Their favorite game is called "inventing things". And so they have already filled a whole rattling cupboard with funny and crazy inventions: the Katti Witt ice-skating towel, for example, or the Pissa von Decka pee-pear. One day, however, they are not supposed to invent a new thing, but to look for one: a FRINDISHEP. And so King Bunny and Lothar have to leave the palace for the very first time in their lives.

The hair raising adventures they experience and how they do not find the FRINDISHEP, but instead find their FRIENDSHIP – that is the story Markus Orths tells in this language-sparkling read-aloud book, wonderfully and imaginatively illustrated by Sarah Garbers.

MARKUS ORTHS, born in 1969, lives in Karlsruhe and works as a freelance author. He has written eighteen books for adults and eighteen for children. His novel Die Enthusiasten was published by Galliani in spring 2026.

SARAH GARBERS studied graphic design at HAWK Hildesheim and worked for several years as a designer. But she found her true happiness in illustration. She loves bringing cheeky, cute, and funny characters to life. She finds inspiration right outside her window, when bold squirrels jump from branch to branch and tits come to visit her.

The day was supposed to be really great, because today is the first day of holiday club. But then, as Lotta gets up, she accidentally spills a glass of water all over her slippers – and that's only the beginning! All day long she keeps making silly mistakes: the baking ingredients go flying through the air, Lotta falls into a puddle, her purse rips, and the bathtub overflows. Mistakes are simply awful! Or are they? No, because some mistakes can even turn out to be really useful ...

This read-aloud picture book shows children that making mistakes is completely normal and how to deal with them. Because absolutely everyone makes mistakes!

ANDREA SCHÜTZE tried pretty much every hobby you can imagine when she was a child. She stuck with reading, and that's why she now loves writing books herself. She has a journeyman's : certificate as a ladies' tailor and a degree in psychology, but no swimming badge. She lives with her daughters and cats in the Black Forest.

Series Information:

The Picture Mouse series tells exciting stories about the adventures of a lovable character or a fascinating setting. In the text, all main nouns are replaced by small pictures that children aged 5 and up can recognize and name while reading (or being read to) together. This gently introduces children to the process of reading and allows them to have "read" their very first book even before starting school!

EARLY READING

Kian sneaks into the dark cave of the dreaded dragon Devorax. Why on earth? He wants to give Princess Gwen a special birthday present: a dragon's tooth. But that night, the castle where he lives is attacked. By Devorax. Is he to blame for the dragon being so enraged? Or is it perhaps because of Knight Dunstan, who has also visited the cave? Can Kian prevent the castle from being reduced to rubble and ashes?

Henri and Elli are spending their vacation with their grandma and her magical plants. But one morning, Grandma has suddenly vanished. She's on the run! After breaking into the museum with her latest creation and stealing a valuable painting! At least, that's what the village cop claims. The Shredder Plant eats through anything that comes in front of its leaves – even museum walls. But Henri's Grandma isn't an art thief! Is she? With Spürwurz and the gang, Henri and Elli set out to find her – and the real culprit.

The little dragon Krümel is good at lots of things, but he just can't seem to get the hang of breathing fire. All the other dragon kids in his class can already do it. And some of them even make fun of Krümel. When everyone decides to light the big campfire together and he can't join in, Krümel has had enough. Sad, he runs away. He secretly practices breathing fire, but without success. But Dulli spots him and teases him again. That makes Krümel so angry that he suddenly spits out colorful little clouds and then even a rainbow. No one else can do that! And he's sure he'll get the hang of breathing fire eventually, too.

EARLY READING

BARBARA VAN DEN SPEULHOF once encountered a dragon herself when she was a child. That day, she decided she wanted to write stories about dragons when she grew up. And that is exactly what she does today. In her many books, she writes not only about dragons, but also about trolls, elves, and other creatures.

DOMINIK RUPP, born in 1989, studied design with a focus on illustration at Münster University of Applied Sciences. Even while he was still a student, he worked for numerous renowned publishers. Today, he is a freelance illustrator and lives in Aachen.

Reihen-Info:

Reading Lions – Let's Read Together! bridges the gap between Picture Mouse and Reading Lions. By reading the story aloud together, children develop a sense of reading rhythm and strengthen their language skills. The age-appropriate stories are divided into short text sections for beginning readers and longer sections for exclamations readers. Large, easy-to-read font, syllable highlighting, simple sentences, and short exclamations make it easier for children to get started with reading. At the end of each chapter, comprehension is playfully assessed through questions. This turns learning to read into a sense of achievement.

Pepper and his human, Paul, almost caught a bank robber – but unfortunately, it was only almost. At least they were able to secure some evidence. But that will have to wait, because right now the big party is taking place at the station. No wonder it's crowded with people. In the commotion, Pepper notices a woman who doesn't seem to be feeling well. Paul takes her to the station's infirmary and goes looking for the medic. He's barely out the door when the woman jumps off the stretcher, locks the door, and – turns out to be the bank robber they almost caught. Now Inspector Paw has to act fast, because the humans have no clue once again.

Who can tell stories set in attics so mysteriously and evocatively that you feel as though you can sense the breath of a ghost or hear the tiptoeing footsteps of a little book cruncher? Only Cornelia Funke can do that.

With the magic of her words, she tells of children who discover their grandfather's secret in the attics of their homes and thereby find a love of books, who lose their fear of the dark thanks to their new sister, or who free ghosts from mousetraps. Five wonderful stories by this great storyteller invite you to marvel and smile.

CORNELIA FUNKE (*1958) studied education and illustration in Hamburg and worked for many years as a freelance children's book illustrator. CHAPTER BOOKS

Luna, a young mustang mare, roams the adventurous prairie with her herd. One night, she discovers she has a special gift: she is a moon whisperer!

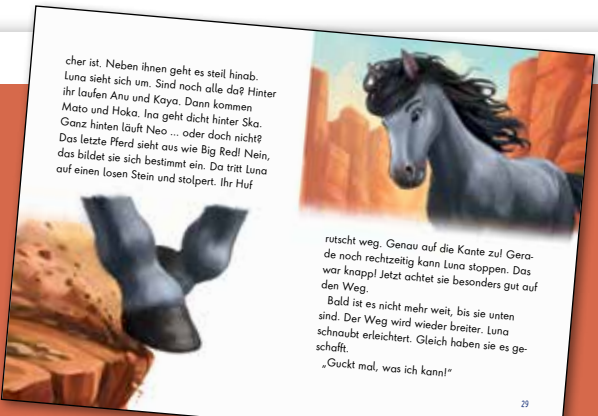

When a strange stallion approaches the herd, Anu and Kaja are instantly smitten: Big Red is the most beautiful horse they've ever seen! He has a shiny coat, knows all the best spots, and is strong and fearless. Luna also notices that the strange stallion is galloping through her thoughts more and more often. Should she join him? But she can't just abandon Neo! And is Big Red really as fearless and smart as he claims to be?

Welcome to Nightmore.
 No cowards allowed!

What the hell? Fynn is sleeping peacefully in his room when he is suddenly attacked out of nowhere by a giant spider. After a brave fight, he manages to escape out the window, but his attacker won't give up. The young witch Morgana has cast a curse on her, one she can only break with a magical amplifier: Satan's whisker. But who's crazy enough to take on the devil?

VANESSA WALDER was born in Heidelberg in 1978 and grew up in Vienna. With the publication of the first volume of the Sisters series in 2001, she became a full-time writer. Since then, many books and series have been published and translated into 37 languages. The author also writes screenplays for feature films and has been living in Berlin since 2008.

PHILIPP ACH, born in 1993, studied illustration and design at the University of Applied Sciences in Münster and at HAW Hamburg. Today he works as a freelance illustrator in the Emsland region. Hidden away in the Old Harbor, behind abandoned buildings and piles of scrap, lies a magical place: the Dragon School “Stormfog”. There, children and their dragons learn how to ride dragons, breathe fire, and fight! Every day, new and exciting adventures await Milan and his lucky dragon at this magical place...

Milan’s dragon instructor, Professor Esden, has disappeared! And when Milan and his friends finally find him, he’s turned into stone. It quickly becomes clear: only a very large and powerful basilisk could be behind this. The friends set out in search of an antidote – and an extremely dangerous dragon.

CHRISTIAN TIELMANN has been writing children’s and young adult books with great success for various publishers since 1999. His works have been translated into more than 30 languages and have received multiple awards. He lives in Detmold.

They're small and really something else – the Pearl Piggies!

Flo has always loved collecting treasures – special stones, feathers, colorful buttons. But when a tiny, shimmering creature with a snout-nose tumbles right at his feet, he can't stop staring in amazement. Knurps is a Pearl Piggy, loves to eat sparkly food more than anything, and would think it's simply oink-tastic to stay with Flo. If only there weren't the sheer number of appointments and Flo's stressed-out parents getting in the way of the fun. But Knurps already knows how to fix that: with rhyme-magic, chaos, and an extra dose of glitter!

The notorious school inspector Dr. Otto Säuerlich is coming to the Lessing Grammar School. And of all classes, he wants to visit 7z, the worst class in the whole school – the one Zosch goes to. All the teachers have called in sick together. There's only one person who can help now: the little genius Lulu is supposed to teach class 7z that day. Of course, Lulu is happy to do it – and not just her: Mönkemeier takes over art, Adrijana teaches music and PE, Zosch does computer science, and because things always go off with a bang there, Brooklyn is already preparing the chemistry lesson.

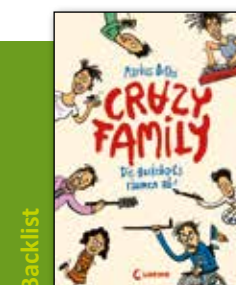

Teaching with a twist: when the Hackebarts rock the school, kids learn something for life.

MARKUS ORTHS spends his days writing books from morning to night. He has already completed 18 novels for adults and 18 for children. Naturally, he writes the children's books with his own three children in mind. Any similarities between the Hackebart family and the Orths family are purely coincidental. Well, most of the time, anyway.

Elinor and Marianne Dashwood couldn't be more different: one is sensible and composed, the other impulsive and full of emotion. When the family suddenly finds itself without a home or fortune, the sisters' future hangs in the balance: the impetuous Marianne is madly in love with the attractive Mr. Willoughby. But he becomes engaged to a wealthy heiress. And Elinor must learn that her shy suitor, Edward Ferrars, has long since promised marriage to another woman. Which path leads to happiness? Sense or sensibility?

Tara Spruit and Claudia Kühn transform Jane Austen's heartfelt, slow-burn love story about the Dashwood sisters into a beautiful graphic novel.

LOEWE GRAPHIX

JANE AUSTEN (1775-1817) was a British author of the Regency era. Her seemingly ordinary yet profound love stories are now enjoyed by millions of readers worldwide. Almost all of them have been successfully adapted for the screen on multiple occasions.

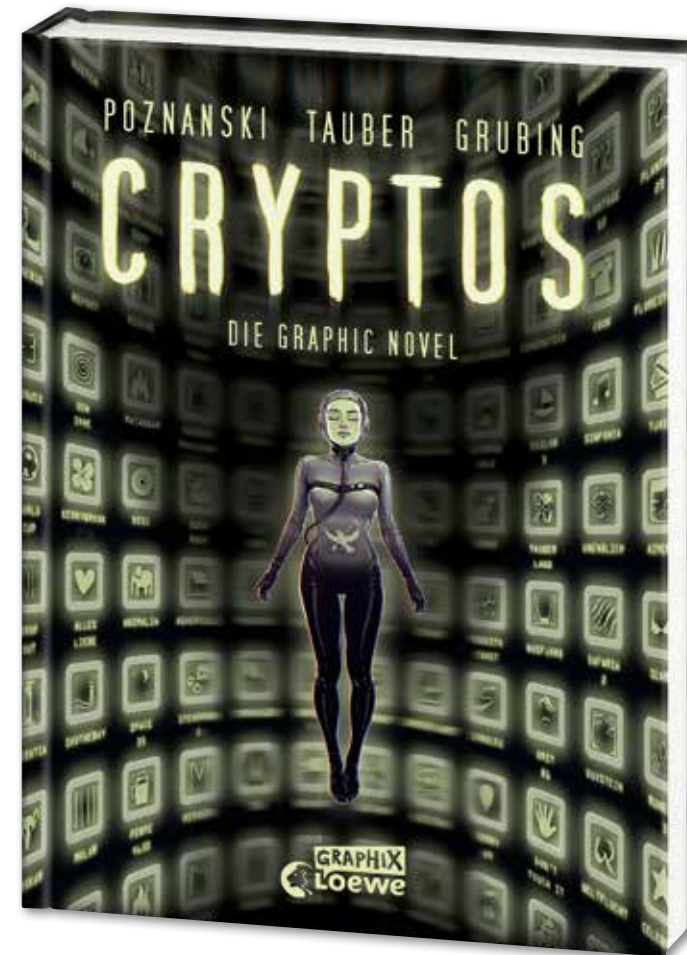

CLAUDIA KÜHN was born in Berlin. After her studies she worked as a dramaturge, editor and author. She admires Jane Austen's writing. Once she read all of her novels, she starts over from the beginning. Claudia Kühn lives with her family in Berlin.

Ursula Poznanski's novel Cryptos takes readers from a dystopian-like future into imaginative and thrilling virtual realities. And that's not all: Jana Pasco's wild journey through the worlds of Mastermind inspired comic book writer Christopher Tauber and illustrator Timo Grubing to create a visually stunning, unnerving, and intelligent graphic novel. Here, every setting is given its own unique style, and the characters captivate with their versatility and expressiveness. Anyone looking for stories that challenge both the mind, and the heart will always find an extraordinary reading experience with Poznanski. And with Tauber and Grubing, the pictures that go with them.

URSULA POZNANSKI, bestselling author and winner of the German Youth Literature Prize, she was immediately enthusiastic about the idea of adapting her novel Cryptos into a graphic novel. If you ask her about her favourite world, she can't decide, but she would probably choose one where you can fly. Or eat unlimited amounts of chocolate. Or both.

CHRISTOPHER TAUBER, born in 1979, has been working as a comic book artist and writer since the turn of the millennium. His body of work includes historical comic adventures set in his hometown of Frankfurt am Main, horror books, and zombie comics, as well as twelve volumes for the popular youth detective series The Three Investigators.

© Loewe Verlag GmbH

TIMO GRUBING, born in 1981, has turned his hobby into a career. Based in his hometown of Bochum, he works as an illustrator, creating artwork for both the inside and outside covers of children's and young adult books, and is increasingly venturing into the world of comics. He moves effortlessly between action, adventure, and horror genres, feeling right at home in all of them.

Jana's latest world is called Canvas, and it's kind of a job agency. Here, you can apply for jobs in other worlds – unpleasant jobs like “toothless beggar” or “hunchbacked shoeshiner” – work that nobody wants to do but that's important to make everything feel as real as possible. As payment, there are new passports to the most beautiful worlds created by Mastermind.

Ever since Earth has become far too hot to live on, people have been spending most of their time in virtual realities. With the exception of the Alphas, a small, privileged group that includes the founding family of Mastermind. But then Jana once again discovers that someone has been manipulating her worlds. Someone with design rights. And Kurt Lauritz, former head of security at Mastermind, who has been imprisoned in Minus Zero since the events of Cryptos, suddenly disappears ...

Seeing, hearing, and writing syllables – this workbook guides first-graders from sound perception to confident written language skills. The concept stands out for its clear structure: words are systematically introduced through the alphabet. Children can master them syllable by syllable by drawing syllable lines, breaking words apart, or matching syllables. The two-color syllable marking, blue for the first, red for the second syllable, makes word structures visible. The grooves in the paper provide stability for pen grip and writing motion and support the development of fine motoric skills. The additional exercises on everyday words promote phonological awareness and basic vocabulary in a playful way. The ideal preparation for starting school!

The new Number Pad is a wonderful addition to our Tracing Grooves series, offering preschoolers a playful introduction to the world of numbers from 0 to 20. Each number is introduced through a corresponding activity – from mazes and counting exercises to simple math problems. The innovative grooved technique allows children not only to write the numbers but also to feel their shape and internalize them. Especially motivating: With the magic pen, they can easily make their first attempts at writing disappear and start over and over again. With a clear approach, tried and tested, this pad is a must-have in the educational toy range.

The Letter Pad offers ideal writing practice, free from pressure, for a uniquely fun learning experience. Thanks to the grooves on the paper, children ages five and up can learn the letters from A to Z in a focused way and practice neat handwriting from an early age. The included magic pen with refill cartridges and an ergonomic writing tip, turns learning into a real adventure: thanks to the self-erasing ink, letters and numbers can be traced as often as desired, without any erasing or frustration. The colorful activity tasks on each page provide variety and help reinforce what has been learned. This makes learning to write fun from the very beginning and ensures visible progress.

CARMEN EISENDLE, born in South Tyrol in 1982, has been passionate about drawing since childhood. After earning a degree in media informatics, she now works as a freelance illustrator. She illustrates children's books and creates designs for T-shirts and other products. She currently lives in Lana, near Merano, with her three children and her husband.

For over 45 years, Reading Lions series has been helping early readers learn to read. For the Reading Lions Learning Aids, we have worked with an experienced educator to develop high-quality learning content that lays the foundation for successful reading and writing. In this workbook, spelling rules can be specifically practiced using learning words and reinforced in subsequent dictations. The dictations are also available as audio files via a QR code, which can be paused and rewind so that children can learn at their own pace. Examples and tips in the exercises support the children, as do the colored syllable markings in the dictations. The increasing level of difficulty and the challenging advanced exercises provide motivation, while the answer letters at the bottom of each page offer an additional incentive. This guarantees learning success!
