Hardcover

A funny picture book about arguing, getting angry and making up, which shows how important it is to ask for forgiveness.

The pig is in a good mood. But then the goat is really mean and the good mood is gone. In its anger, the pig passes on the mood by insulting the rabbit, who then offends the duck, which in turn unloads its anger on the goat. Stupid duck!, the goat thinks. Until it remembers how mean it has also been. Oh dear! Will it be able to make up for it?

- A powerful picture book to read aloud for ages 4 and up.
- Key themes: Getting angry, arguing, asking for forgiveness, apologizing, and getting along
- Strengthens emotional development and helps to deal with difficult emotions
