He has a gift. She is his muse.

When Nova's father unexpectedly announces a visit to Munich, she panics. Contrary to her claims, her life is not running smoothly. She urgently needs a respectable job and - most importantly - a presentable relationship. After a whirlwind night with Henry Saint Clair, who is far from her usual type, a plan starts to form: Henry will pretend to be her boyfriend. In return, she'll help him rediscover the one thing he lost after his mother's diagnosis: his love for art. Ironically, it's Nova, who appears so superficial at first glance, who becomes the muse of the former art prodigy, sparking that familiar tingling in his fingers once again...

Intrigue, scandals, and broken hearts: In the continuation of the Golden Hearts trilogy, SPIEGEL-bestselling author Marina Neumeier masterfully weaves the uniqueness of the art world with Munich's high society. Luxury meets passion in this spicy fake dating romance.

- Opposites Attract meets Fake Dating
- Creativity, scandals, and broken hearts: Art meets High Society
- Captivating love story with Gossip Girl vibes
- Sensitive exploration of important topics like illness and trauma
