Eisenheim, the mysterious city of dreamers, is threatened by a power that defies understanding; a non-thing that is gathering in huge clouds over the suburbs. Flora has just got used to the notion that she is a princess in this drab, shadowy world, and she is deeply concerned. Is she responsible for the destruction of the city because she has concealed the white lion? Eisenheim's stone of destiny lies hidden deep within the ground and it is calling to her; Flora soon realises that her fate and that of the stone are linked; it is only when she has solved the mystery of their common origin that she will be able to save Eisenheim and rejoin Marian, the boy she loves.

the second and final Eisenheim story

- promising young German author
- a strong love story with unusual protagonists
- a refreshing mix of genres, combining Urban Fantasy and Steam Punk

Like its forerunner, Night of Smoke and Mist (Nacht aus Rauch und Nebel) sparkles with originality, excitement and tempo. With a series of astonishing twists and a brilliant eye for detail Mechthild Gläser's second volume brings her tale about Flora and Marian to an end in a wonderfully entertaining and complex novel that is filled with unforgettable figures.

Mechthild Gläser

Today, she still lives and works in the Ruhr area of Germany, where she occasionally dances ballet incredibly badly, but only when nobody is looking. She loves to think up abstruse stories, and has started writing at an early age. She finds inspiration everywhere, at best when drinking a cup of peppermint tea. Mechthild Gläser has been awarded the Seraph prize for fantasy.
