With her first major children's novel, Meike Haas leads her young readers into the colourful world of the South Seas – a place of rough-and-ready pirates, careless mermaids, little captains with big mouths and legendary treasures. A South Sea adventure full of enchanting figures, humour designed to appeal to children and fantastic ideas. On the night of 13 September it rains throughout the world. Karla lies in bed directly under the roof, hears the water running in the gutters and imagines she is on a ship in the South Seas. And suddenly that's where she actually is, on little captain Fippe Geier's boat. Karla really wants to get back home as quickly as possible, but then Dolores appears, a particularly ugly mermaid, and begs the two to help her: pirates are plotting to steal the mermaids' treasure by means of a devious trick! Karla, Fippe and Dolores set off in pursuit of the pirates – but the rogues are always one step ahead. It almost looks like a lost cause ...

Meike Haas

Meike Haas wurde 1970 in Laupheim geboren. Ihre eigene Reiterkarriere fand wegen schlechter Erfahrungen mit einem sehr störrischen Pony nach nur vier Stunden ein frühes Ende. Nach dem Studium in Regensburg, Wien und München arbeitete Meike Haas einige Jahre als Journalistin für verschiedene Zeitungen. Inzwischen lebt sie mit ihrem Freund und ihren zwei Kindern in München und widmet sich ganz dem Schreiben von Büchern. Hier geht es zur Website von Meike Haas
