The Blue Arctic Fox

Blueworm - that's what the siblings call the little Arctic fox pup, the only one in the litter without snow-white fur. They make him believe he's less valuable and less clever. Blueworm decides to leave his family. On his journey, a polar bear gives him the name Grischa, the Watchful. Brave and determined, Grischa crosses the frozen polar sea until he reaches another continent. There, he meets Sakari, a blue fox, who becomes his partner. Soon, they have pups of their own. But among the dark-furred cubs is one tiny white fox. Grischa vows never to treat his daughter the way he was treated. But will he be able to keep that promise?

Anna Lisa Kiesel

Anna Lisa Kiesel, born in Graz in 1989, started reading and writing before leaving school and has hardly put down her pen since. She quickly abandoned her German studies, which she began at the age of 15, and instead trained as a photographer and worked as a freelance copywriter. She has since dedicated herself entirely to children's and young adult books and is constantly inspired by her daughter and son to write new stories.
