

Sophie Benning (script5)

author

After she was thrown from her first furnished apartment – much like our protagonists – Sophie Benning shared a flat with her friends. She stayed in it during her studies as a graphic designer. Of course there were days when the three women sat in the kitchen planning how to get rid of the male flat mates without attracting attention ... But so far she always made her peace with the male population and decided to put off the perfect crime to another day. But one thing is for sure: Sophie and her friends know that the perfect man still has to be born.
