Story

SUNNY ALONE IN NEW YORK

His Cheerfulness is jealous. Ever since the summer holidays have come to an end, Sunny, Flip and Amir have been going to school every day, and the house has been lonely. So it relocated the class to between its own four walls, foolishly managing to lose Helene the teacher in the process. Sunny has to help find Helene. But that is not so easy because when she walks through the door to the toilet, she suddenly finds herself in the most bustling city of them all – New York. How is she supposed to find Helene among all these people?

“A very unusual and exciting story about friendship, dreams and team spirit, which certainly won't send you to sleep. It's far too funny to start you yawning” Die Welt

- Written with lots of humour

- An endless supply of surprises
- Appealing illustrations and typography

Irmgard Kramer

Irmgard Kramer was born in 1969 in Vorarlberg and grew up in an old house that felt alive. After nineteen years of being a primary school teacher, she threw away her chalks and now lives as a freelance author among mountains, cows and cheeses in Bregenzerwald. She writes stories for young and older readers, and for magazines.
