Story

After her initial adventures and discoveries about herself at Coral Crown mermaid Alani is now taking her first lessons in synchronized swimming, anthropology and sea horse long jump. To her relief she already has found a good friend Tay who likes the other glittery mermaids just as little as she herself. With the help of Tay Alani has to solve to more problems this time: first, get Tay on the dolphin polo team and secondly, find out what is behind the black shadow that lately lurks around the reef and frightens everybody to death.

Dagmar H. Mueller

Dagmar Mueller studied sports and German language in Hamburg. She is an avid swimmer and surfer and likes to spend her time in or at least near the water. She often goes on holiday to the Atlantic coast to enjoy the sea and the good weather. Today she lives together with her family in an idyllic house on Europe's biggest island England and writes books for children and teenager which are successful all over the world.
