Bianca, Violetta and Rosalind are three adorable princesses. But they share a tiny quirk: they love to argue!

One day a visitor asks for entrance into the castle. Prince Waldomir doesn't enjoy hunting dragons anymore and rather prefers to get married know. Of course each princess is convinced to be the best choice and the prince's one and only. So a rat race is launched before they have even met the puny prince for the first time...

„Do we really need more princesses? Yes! These ones we absolutely need because they are refreshingly different from the usual ideal-of-beauty-dollies that dominate literature for girls.“ Welt am Sonntag

Ursula Poznanski

Ursula Poznanski was born in Vienna, and spent ten years studying all sorts of subjects at the university there, before abandoning all hope of getting a degree and getting to grips with real life as a medical journalist. After her son was born, she started writing books for young readers. Her first book, Erebos, won numerous prizes (including the German Children's Literature Prize awarded by the Youth Jury), and made her famous around the world. In the meantime she has become one of Germany's most successful authors, and she also writes best-selling thrillers for adult readers. She and her family live to the south of Vienna.
